

RED CROSS SEAL SALE BRINGS OVER $1000

The campaign for the sale of the Red Cross seals, which is being waged by the members of the College Club, has practically come to a close, and James A. Rath, who has been appointed by the National Red Cross Association, as agent for the stamps in the Hawaiian Islands, reports that the total receipts of the campaign amount to over one thousand dollars.

After the stamps arrived, the campaign for their sale was started by the women of the College Club, who solicited the help of a number of schoolgirls, and for three days they were scattered over the city selling the little seals. Now that this has been completed, the stamps will be put on sale at the leading business houses throughout the city and in this way it is expected that the entire number of 400,000 stamps which were received here will be sold. A large number have been sent to the other islands, but as yet no returns have come in regarding their sale.

"Although I am very well satisfied with the results of the preliminary campaign," said Mr. Rath this morning, "yet I believe that more of the seals could have been sold had they arrived here earlier than they did. So many of the people of Honolulu sent their presents to the mainland at an early date, and thus were unable to secure the stamps. I am sure that the entire number will be sold, especially on the other islands, and I think that Honolulu will have as good a report to make to the National Association as any other city of its size."

ANCIENT CARVING FOUND IN CHURCH

Artistic Twelfth Century Arch Uncovered in Famous Old London Structure

LONDON, Nov. 20.—Visitors to London with an eye for historic buildings will find fresh interest in the ancient Round Church of the Temple—now the home of the lawyers. This locality has long been a haunt of overseas tourists, especially Americans, not merely on account of the church, but also the adjacent Goldsmith's tomb, Dr. Johnson's chambers and associations with Dickens' characters.

In the course of restoration work recently carried out on the porch of

EXPENSIVE FISH FOR JAPANESE

District Magistrate Monsarrat took a hand in the aiding and abetting of the soaring cost of existence this morning when he assisted in the election of the price for fish.

Two Japanese were brought before the court upon a charge of helping themselves to piscatorial beauties which rightfully belonged in a private pond, the property of Kaiti Chinese headlers.

The Japanese were caught with the goods. Placed under arrest, they received fines of $25 in each instance. The money was paid over, the defendants vowing that in future as a matter of economy, fish might better be secured at the regular appointed markets.

Sam Jones, an Hawaiian faced court this morning upon a charge of having broken the nose of a Chinese during the progress of a melee. Sam failed to give a very clear and concise account of the affray. The damaged facial adornment displayed by the Chinese proved mute evidence that some force was expended in the fistful argument. Jones was called upon to settle a fine of $25 and the costs.

A Russian woman alleging that her husband had repeatedly mistreated her, decided to leave his bed and board in favor of a fellow countryman, with the result that both man and woman were arraigned before Judge Monsarrat this morning charged with a statutory offense.

A suspended sentence for the female defendant and $35 fine for the man followed the conclusion of the hearing.

A trio of inebriates gathered in late last evening by police officers, entered pleas of guilty and received the minimum fines.

The church it was discovered that the stonework of the beautiful little semi-circular arched doorway was covered with a thick deposit of some preservative stuff, put on, probably, during the restoration and alterations of the early part of last century. The deposit was carefully cleaned off with chemicals, and underneath was found the original stonework and carving of the arch.

Having been thus protected from the London smoke and fog, the whole was found to be in a perfect state of preservation, the carving of the most intricate and delicate kind being almost as fresh as the day on which it was wrought. The archway is now in practically the same condition as it was when in 1185 the Knights Templars built the Round Church as their place of worship, the style being transition Norman.

EVERYBODY TO GO TO LADIES' NIGHT AT 'Y'

Don't make any engagements for Friday night! Beginning at eight o'clock the doors of the Young Men's Christian Association will be thrown open for the second Ladies' Night, and under the direction of Messrs. Lau and Wisdom, a program of stunts, has been prepared which will be in the form of a miniature circus. The last time the guests came to look over the building, and tomorrow night they will come to see the principle features of the association in action.

The events in the gymnasium during the evening will consist of a number of different things, including performances on some of the queerest looking apparatus that was ever invented. Messrs. Rosa and Gunn will perform on the "horse," while Gilliland Bechert and Quinn will manipulate the parallel bars. Another feature will be the swinging of the illuminated Indian clubs, a stunt introduced by physical director Fred Lau. Then there will be a group of pyramid builders, who will do some effective grouping on the Roman ladders. There will be relay races and various other stunts too numerous to mention, and the whole performance will wind up with a lively basketball game between the two association teams, the Myrtles and the All-Stars. It is expected that the latter team will shine. Frank Bechert and A. L. Hall, two old-timers in the basketball sport, have been coaching the two teams and there will be some fast work on both sides.

The ladies and their escorts will have the exclusive use of the billiard tables and the bowling alleys and refreshments will be on tap during the evening and a quintet will furnish music. Admission will be by ticket, which may be secured free for the asking at either the Y. M. C. A. or the Y. W. C. A. The time is eight o'clock tomorrow night.

PUNAHOU HONORED.

A. J. Lowrey, a senior at Harvard College, and H. R. Hitchcock, Jr., a junior, both of Hawaii, have been chosen members of a committee on a permanent forum, in which subjects, both of general and of college interest, will be informally debated.

CHANGE OF PROGRAM AT YE LIBERTY TONIGHT

Big Double Bill Presented by Merry Hughes Musical Comedy Company

A grand double bill will be presented tonight at the Liberty by the Hughes Musical Comedy Company. The Bullfighters, a one act musical farce will head the bill. The Hebrew and Dutch comedians, Bert Le Blanc and Frank Vack have an opportunity to display their skill in that grand old Spanish sport. Specialties will include a turn by Harry Burgess and Eugene La Blanc which gained them much earned success on the Orpheum circuit some six months back.

The second part of the bill will be filled by another one act musical farce comedy entitled "Three of a Kind," in which many amusing complications arise from the striking resemblance of three brothers. This laugh-provoker shows the comedians in entirely different parts and gives Mr. Carlton Chase an opportunity to show his versatility.

TAX ON VISITORS IS FRENCH PLAN

PARIS, Nov. 20.—Fifty mayors of seaside places on the Atlantic coast of France—including Sables d'Olonne, Biarritz, Arcachon, Royan and other popular resorts—met at the town hall of La Rochelle and passed unanimously a motion in favor of taxing all visitors.

The tax will be imposed in the same way as the "Kur-tax" in many towns in Germany. On arrival every visitor will be asked to sign a declaration as to the probable length of his stay and will be handed a ticket, for which he will be charged in his hotel bill.

The Paris newspapers are raising an outcry against the proposed impost, which they criticize as a tax on fresh air and sea water. It is not improbable that the scheme will fall through.
